Some Materials for a Bibliography of the Official Publications of the Continental Congress.

1774–1789.

In 1885 the United States government published what purported to be A Descriptive Catalogue of the Government Publications of the United States, September 5, 1774–March 4, 1881, which should have rendered any such list as the present unnecessary; but that elaborate work was misnamed, as it is at best but an index to government publications, and for the period covered by this bibliography is little more than an imperfect index to the Journals of the Continental Congress, and has, therefore, been of no assistance in compiling this catalogue. From Sabin's Dictionary of Books relating to America; Thomas's and Haven's Catalogue of Publications in the United States, 1639–1775, and Hildeburn's Issues of the Pennsylvania Press, I have derived aid, more especially from the latter. I also owe thanks to Dr. Samuel A. Green, Hon. A. R. Spofford, Mr. F. A. Bancroft, Mr. Charles A. Cutter, Mr. W. Eames, Mr. Bumford Samuels, Mr. Lindsay Swift, Mr. William Kelby, and Mr. J. W. M. Lee, for assistance in the compilation.

The arrangement is strictly chronological, under the date of the introduction by the committee, or the adoption by the Congress, and those without date and collected publications are placed at the end of the year to which they belong. The initials at the end of the description indicate certain public libraries in which the publication can be consulted.

An agreement between the twelve Colonies not to trade with England, drafted by Thomas Cushing, Isaac Low, Thomas Mifflin, Richard Henry Lee, and Thomas Johnson, Jun.

"Ordered, That this Association be committed to the press, and one hundred and twenty copies struck off." Journal as printed in Force, fourth series, I.

The original document is reproduced in Force's Archives, fourth series, I., 915; and a [burlesque] "versified and set to music" version was printed by Rivington in New York. There were also many pamphlets issued at the time, discussing it from all points of view.

8°. pp. 36. P.L.

Two letters from the Congress, one to the "People of Great Britain" (drafted by John Jay), and the other to the "Inhabitants of the Colonies" (drafted by Richard Henry Lee), which were reported by a committee of three, — Richard Henry Lee, William Livingston, and John Jay.

This title is not in Hildeburn, but, misled by Sabin (40,508), he gives a title of what is apparently the same pamphlet. Sabin was in error in the date, and the true description is given herein. No. 54.

"Ordered, That the Address to the people of Great Britain, and the Memorial to the Inhabitants of the British Colonies be immediately committed to the press; and that no more than one hundred and twenty copies of each be struck off, without further orders from the Congress." Journal.

The text of the letter to the "Inhabitants of the Colonies" was slightly altered in the subsequent issues, and copies of this edition are sometimes found with MS. corrections of the changes made.

6. A Letter to the People of Great Britain from the Delegates of the American Congress in Philadelphia. [London:] Andrews. 8°.

This title is taken from the "Monthly Catalogue" in the Critical Review from January, 1775 (xxxix, 73), where it is noticed as follows: —

". . . It is a mixture of compliment and expostulation, accompanied with complaints relative to the establishment of the Catholic religion in Canada, and to the supposed violation of their privileges in the article of taxation; interspersed with ominous anticipations of the future slavery of the whole British dominion, in consequence of the plan of government adopted by administration. With respect to the Quebec Bill, it was only fulfilling engagements which we were solemnly bound to maintain by treaty of peace, and for the performance of which the national faith had been pledged. In regard to the point of taxation, we might have expected that the Americans would enter largely into the discussion of the subject, upon political principles; and that they likewise would have at least attempted to invalidate the force of the several precedents produced to evince their own acknowledgment or former acquiescence in the supreme authority of the British Parliament. Nothing of this kind is, however, to be found in the Letter before us; a most material and unaccountable defect, if we consider that it was written at a time when the delegates, by whom it is sent, were upon the eve of adopting such extraordinary measures, as may endanger the whole system of British and American commerce."

Oct. 26. Letter to Quebec.

7. A Letter / to the / Inhabitants / of the / Province / of / Quebec. / Extract from the Minutes of the Congress. / Philadelphia: / Printed by William and Thomas Bradford, / October, 1774./ 8°. pp. (2), [37]–50. P.H.S.

Cushing, Lee and Dickinson were appointed, October 21, a committee to prepare this letter, the draft of which, both by common acceptance and by the statement in Dickinson's "Writings" (published in 1801, under his supervision), is referred to Dickinson's pen; yet John Adams (Diary in "Works," II., 392), on October 4, writes, "General Lee came to my lodgings, and showed me Address from the C. to the people of Canada, which he had"—or, eleven days before Dickinson was elected to the Congress, and eighteen days before the committee was appointed.

Oct. 26. Petition to the King.

13. (133) / To Peyton Randolph, Esq. [Philadelphia: W. and T. Bradford. 1774.]
8°. pp. [133]–144. P.L.

Printed as an appendix to No. 39, but copies were separately issued. It consists of the letter from Gage to Randolph and the Petition to the King.

The Petition was reported to Congress by a committee consisting of John Adams, Thomas Johnson, Patrick Henry, John Rutledge, Richard Henry Lee, and John Dickinson, and the draft is claimed for both of the latter two: for Lee in his Life by R. H. Lee, Jr., and for Dickinson in his Writings. The fair inference seems to be that Lee prepared the first draft, reported to Congress October 21, which, not meeting with their approval, was recommitted, with Dickinson added to the committee. The second report was probably a revisal of Lee's draft by Dickinson. In Adams' Diary (Works, II., 396) it appears that he and Henry were in consultation over the Petition, and it is plain that all the papers of the Continental Congress, though of necessity written by one man, were the combined logic and opinions of the committee, and the honor belongs to no individual member.

18. 8°. pp. (4), 11, 50. P.

19. 8°. pp. (4), 23, 50. P.H.S.

The first collation given is, I believe, the first edition of this famous pamphlet, being "made up," apparently, from the remainders of Nos. 2 and 5, with the addition of the Bill of Rights and List of Grievances. The Letter to the Inhabitants of Quebec (No. 7), though printed after this was issued, and having a separate title is intended to be a part of the "Extracts."

Nothing perhaps shows more thoroughly the intense interest with which the proceedings of the Congress were awaited, than the following list of editions:—

20. Extracts / from the / Votes and Proceedings / of the American / Continental / Congress, / Held at Philadelphia, September 5, 1774, / Containing / The Bill of Rights, a List of Grievances, Occasional Resolves, the Association, an / Address to the People of Great-Britain, / A Memorial to the Inhabitants of the / British American Colonies, and a Petition / to the King / To which is added, / The Proceedings of the / Provincial Convention, / Held at Philadelphia, January 23, 1775. / Published by order of the Provincial Convention. / Philadelphia: / Printed by William and Thomas Bradford, / at the London Coffee-House. / M,DCC,LXXV. / 8°. pp. 80. P.H.S.

21. Fleet, in Cornhill. / M.DCC,LXXIV. 8°. pp. 49. M.

The second issue contains the "Suffolk Resolutions," the "Letter to the Inhabitants of Quebec," and several minor resolutions, which were not included in the previous editions.

In spite of the statement on the title-page, this volume contains none, (the Petition to the King excepted), of the papers there mentioned.

"The late pamphlet, entitled, 'Extracts from the Votes and Proceedings of the American Continental Congress,' contained only a Part of the Journal of that Congress. The whole Journal has since been published in America; but it was thought proper to reprint only such parts in this Pamphlet, as were omitted in the former, in order that those Gentlemen who have purchased the 'Extracts' may make their Copies complete, if they chuse it. The two pamphlets contain the entire Journal of the Proceedings of the Congress."

"Dr. Franklin, about the 15th or 16th of Dec. 1774, received these Proceedings of the Congress, with the Petition to the King dated the 26th October previous. The times were growing very serious, and it was thought best to let Almon publish them immediately. The effect was startling, for the pamphlet proclaimed to the discriminating British public (if there was at that time such a body) that the English language had acquired new vigour and clearness in being transplanted to the Western shores. The pith, point and soundness of these public papers astonished the statesmen and confounded the politicians, and at the same time delighted the friends of the Colonies, particularly Lord Chatham and Lord Camden." — HENRY STEVENS.

The committee appointed to prepare this Declaration, consisting of John Rutledge, William Livingston, Franklin, Jay and Johnson, reported a draft on June 24, which, not being approved by the Congress, was recommitted, and Jefferson and Dickinson added to the Committee.

"On the 24th, a committee which had been appointed to prepare a declaration of the causes of taking up arms, brought in their report (drawn I believe by J. Rutledge) which not being liked, the House recommitted it, on the 26th, and added Mr. Dickinson and myself to the committee.... I prepared a draught of the declaration committed to us. It was too strong for Mr. Dickinson . . . We therefore requested him to take the paper, and put it into a form he could approve. He did so, preparing an entire new statement, and preserving of the former only the last four paragraphs and half of the preceding one. We approved and reported it to Congress, who accepted it." The only separate edition of the second petition to the King I have been able to find. It was printed, (with the addition of a preliminary Address, the Address of the Mayor of London "To the Electors," and a portion of Chatham's Speech) by the New York Committee of Safety "to correct the assertion that the Continental Congress had made no advances."

The committee to prepare the petition consisted of Dickinson, Johnson, John Rutledge, Jay and Franklin; and Dickinson wrote the draft.

July 4. Declaration of Independence.

101. In Congress, July 4, 1776. / A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States / of America, in General Congress Assembled. [Philadelphia: John Dunlap. 1776.]

F°. Broadside.

I judge this to be the first edition of this famous paper, as it is the one gummed into the MS. Journals of Congress by the Secretary.

Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, and Robert R. Livingston were appointed June 11 by Congress a committee to prepare the declaration. Jefferson, at the request of the committee, wrote the first draft, which was slightly altered by Adams and Franklin, and in that form accepted by the committee, who reported it to Congress June 28; where, after debate and amending, it was adopted July 4. A facsimile of Jefferson's rough draft, showing the corrections made by Adams and Franklin, is printed in the Charlottesville and Boston editions of his "Memoirs," as edited by T. J. Randolph, and in the first issue of his "Writings," edited by H. A. Washington:—A facsimile of a fair copy, in Jefferson's handwriting, is printed in volume III of the "Papers of James Madison":—A copy showing the amendments made by Congress, in comparison with the original draft, is contained in all the editions of Jefferson's "Memoirs" and "Writings." In 1824 Congress ordered 200 copies to be reproduced in facsimile on parchment, of the engrossed copy, and this plate was used later to print that contained in Force's Archives (v. I., 1595), and has also been used to print a separate edition on paper. Both Jefferson's draft and the engrossed copy have been reproduced in facsimile many times, and there have been many printed editions, besides the contemporary editions noted herein. In the Adams Mss. is a copy of Jefferson's draft, in the writing of Adams, made before even Jefferson had made his corrections and interlineations.

The first edition of the Declaration printed for the Congress was issued before it was engrossed on parchment, and signed. It was therefore merely signed by Hancock, and attested by Thomson. This edition was printed for the Congress "with the list of the several members of Congress subscribed thereto," to be filed in the archives of each state.

On Aug. 10, it was "resolved that a committee of three be appointed to prepare a circular letter to the several states," but contrary to custom, no members were named, and it is evident that while the Congress agreed to the letter they could not agree to the men who were to prepare it. It was to deal partly with the French alliance and the consequent letters of the French Minister, and the Franklin-Deane-Lee imbroglio had rent the Congress into factions, each of which feared some partizan attempt to influence the people through this official letter. Finally after nearly a month's dead-lock the Congress on Sept. 8 requested their president, John Jay, to prepare a letter, which he reported Sept. 13, and which was unanimously accepted. It is the only case in the history of the whole Continental Congress of one man being named to prepare a paper.

On Oct. 26, 1778, G. Morris, W. H. Drayton and R. H. Lee were appointed a committee "to superintend the publication of such matters relating to the disputes, petitions and negotiations to and with the court of Great-Britain, and such notes and explanations thereon as to them shall appear proper; and that they agree with the printer for thirteen hundred copies of such publication, on account of Congress." On Nov. 13, S. Adams was added to this committee, and they were "impowered to proceed in the publication as they judge proper." These two references are the only ones in the Journal I have been able to find; but the work was not published till early in Mar., 1779.

It is severely attacked by Common Sense (Thomas Paine) in the Pennsylvania Packet for Mar. 20, 1779, and he says it was written by Drayton and Morris, the latter performing the greater part. In Spark's Life of Morris it is said to be entirely written by him. It is, however, largely a compilation.

Was also reprinted in Almon's Remembrancer for 1780.

On Mar. 31, 1779, Congress "resolved, that from the first of January last the journal of this house . . . be printed immediately; and that for the future [it] . . . be printed weekly." In pursuance of this, three monthly parts, for the past months of January, February and March were printed, and after that it was continued each week in weekly parts.

It is needless to say that these monthly and weekly issues are of the greatest rarity, and are, moreover, of value, as they include much matter not printed in the ordinary yearly volume. The only perfect copies I know of are in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the library of Gordon L. Ford, of Brooklyn, N. Y. There are a few odd parts in the N. Y. State and Connecticut State libraries. See Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society.
